/09/2014 HOLY MOLY. Really quickly got this and it works absolutely spot on. Me and the missus did a 6am hoilday last week and it worked great as always (apart from my butler not pressing the "charm" button on the iron when it was ironing). Second day at work and it worked like a dream. It did start going a bit too hot but it seemed to cool down for a bit so I'm not going to get too worked up about that. I would really recommend it. If you need to make some money quick and don't want to get it from a dodgy website then get it from www.nextdoor.com, cheaper than any other website I've found! Share this comment Link to comment Hi all, I just bought the fire shot pro professional license keygen and started a new project. The software works really great! However, I am having a bit of trouble understanding how to do things in the application. I want to use a DSLR camera, and I've installed the plug in. When I drag a file from my desktop to the application window, it automatically launches the plug in as well. Is it possible to select where it takes the file from? For example, when I drag a file from my desktop, I want it to go to my camera, but I don't want the plug in to launch. Any help appreciated. Frank Edited August 20, 2013 by superman18 0 I bought the fire shot pro pro licence from the next door website with cash and paid for the 50 day warranty. I just started using it today after burning a new project and it is turning out great. I'm an avid photographer and I can't wait to try it out on my nikon dslr. It is a really simple application to use, I feel like I have it under control just by watching the screen. Here is a small gallery of images I just made using the application. It's a small test of a project I am working on for our church where we are trying to teach the kids about Jesus. The two images below are from my Nikon dslr and the others are just some of the images I made using the application. I can't wait to get the whole project on film! There 82157476af
